

LAKEWOOD PARK

With very serene surroundings, Lakewood Park offers “the great outdoors.” Purchased from the Mel Jarvis family in 1967, Lakewood Park is located at Iron and Indiana with an additional entrance off East North Street. Lakewood includes 99 acres, a small fishing lake and the Lakewood Discovery Center, which houses the Parks & Recreation Natural Resource Programs and Nature Center. Picnic shelters are available on both north and south portions of the park, along with an 18-hole Frisbee Golf Course. In 1995 an accessible fishing pier was added on the north shore providing fishing opportunities for everyone. The park also offers nature trails and has developed into a natural wildlife habitat while maintaining a park atmosphere.
